Being part of initiatives like Parivartan - Prison to Pride, he provides hockey training to prison inmates, propelling the positive impact on individuals and society.

IndianOil has provided me with a sense of security and stability, allowing me to focus wholeheartedly on my training and competitions without worrying about my financial future. However, the organisation's support goes beyond financial assistance; it extends to providing facilities, coaching, and medical aid, nurturing my talent and potential. I am deeply grateful to my colleagues and the management of for their unwavering support over the past 23 years. My journey with IndianOil has been nothing short of transformative, and I look forward to many more years of growth and contribution ahead.
